

Peg Dotchin

Art has always been my passion. After raising my two children, I returned to earn my Fine Arts Degree from UMass at Amherst.

The Lichtenstein Center for the Arts is where I have maintained a studio for nearly 30 years.

Landscapes are my primary motif. I work in oils, pastels and encaustic. In the past four year I have become more concerned with global issues. Two years ago, I had an opportunity to travel to Iceland. The trip inspired several new paintings.
